Tackling Technique on Recorder—Leslie Timmons

February 20, 2010; 9 a.m.—1:00 p.m.; Carman Trails

In this workshop, we will explore specific ideas for learning excellent woodwind technique in a classroom setting. Using the creative teaching processes of Orff Schulwerk: echo playing, improvisation, rhythmic speech exercises, singing, listening, notation, and movement; the focus will be on incorporating recorder instruction into ensemble activities instead of isolating it from other musical development. St. Louis Recorder Society will also provide a short concert.

Exploring the Volumes—Variations

March 27, 2010; 9:00 a.m.—12:00 p.m.; Carman Trails

Pot Luck Luncheon for all chapter members at 12:00 noon. Please bring a dish to share!

In this workshop we will look at some unfamiliar pieces from the volumes and the chapter will create performances using those samples. We will then discuss our own creative process and the process in which we would present these pieces to students.

From the Big Apple: Movement Ideas for the Music Classroom—Anna Marie Spallina

April 17, 2010; 9:00 a.m.—1:00 p.m.; Carman Trails

This workshop will focus on Orff-based lesson ideas for elementary music grades 2-6 incorporating movement and sound games, drama, Renaissance dance, storytelling, recorder and improvisation, 12-bar blues, and instrumental improvisation. We will explore musical forms in their historical context using their structures as a framework for inventing new movement and instrumental pieces.
